Call for Papers

For the annual Autumn Meeting of the Research Group „Young Demographers“

“Demographic Aspects of Migration”

9 – 10 October 2008, Nürnberg/Germany

Organizers: Thomas Salzmann, Nadine Zielonke

„Young Demographers“ is a newly founded research group within the German Association of Demography (DGD e.V.). The aim of the research group is to advance young population scientists and to encourage national and international collaboration in the interdisciplinary field of demography.

The 2008 Autumn Meeting will be held in Nürnberg/ Germany from October 9 - 10, in cooperation with the German Federal Office for Migration and Refugees (BAMF). The overarching theme of the meeting will be on MIGRATION and its national as well as international perspectives given its growing relevance on population dynamics and demographic changes.

The aim of the meeting is to stimulate the promotion of latest ideas, research questions and methodological approaches in the field of migration and to discuss its impact on population, society, policy and economy.

We expect English as well as German contributions to the following topics:

- Population dynamic processes caused by migration
- Migration and fertility
- Migration and mortality/morbidity
- Demographic processes of certain immigrant groups
- Socio-demographic and economic aspects of migration
- Migration and employment
- Forecasting international migration

The meeting aims to be interdisciplinary and international. Empirical and theoretical submissions from the disciplines of demography, sociology, economics, statistics, ethnology, and political sciences are welcome. A publication of the conference papers (in English) is intended.

Keynote speakers include Barry Edmonston (University of Victoria) and James Raymer (University of Southampton).

Abstracts should be submitted to the organizers before May 5 2008. They should not exceed two pages and contain the author's contact information. Acceptance decisions will be communicated till mid-May 2008. Please feel free to contact the organizers if you have any questions. Further informations are also available on the website:
